

December 2012 traffic

Vueling increases the number of passengers carried in 2012 by 20%

The company reaches a new traffic record with 14.8 million passengers carried in 2012

Barcelona, 10th January 2013. – Vueling Airlines carried 967,456 passengers in December 2012. This represents a 14.3% increase compared to December 2011. The company reached a load factor of 74%.

For the year 2012, Vueling Airlines carried 14,794,857 passengers. This represents a 20.1% increase compared to 2011. The company reached a load factor of 77.7%

The main traffic figures are the following:

	December			January-December
	2012	2011	%	2012	2011	%
Flights	7,355	6,203	18.6%	108,433	92,243	17.6%
ASKs (millions)	1,227	973	26.1%	17,622	14,314	23.1%
RPKs (millions)	908	744	22.1%	13,693	10,820	26.6%
Load factor (RPKs/ASKs)	74.0%	76.5%	-2.5pp	77.7%	75.6%	2.1pp
Passengers ('000)	967	847	14.3%	14,795	12,316	20.1%

Growth in 2013

In 2013 Vueling will continue its consolidation and growth based on international expansion. Vueling has launched this month a new route between Alicante and Moscow. This route adds to the existing routes already operated by Vueling between Spain and Russia: Barcelona-Moscow, Majorca-Moscow, Ibiza-Moscow and Barcelona-Saint Petersburg.